Evelyne Albertelli

Choosing the ICP Rouen campus for your studies means joining a lively, supportive and collaborative university community. Here, your future and your projects are important to us. That's why the Institut Catholique de Paris values commitment and responsibility. We will enable you to make the most of your talents.

A school in the heart of the city

Located in the center of town, on the Route de Neufchâtel, in a site steeped in cultural and historical heritage, it echoes the Paris and Reims campuses.

Renovation work is currently underway to create welcoming, functional university spaces that promote educational innovation.

The ICP is a state-approved, independent institution of higher learning, accredited by the French government as an Etablissement d'Enseignement Supérieur Privé d'Intérêt Général (EESPIG).

An attractive range of courses

The ICP offers bachelor's degrees in Rouen, whose reputation and success rates have been proven for many years on its Paris campus.

Bachelor's degree in Public Law and Political Science; Private Law

Bachelor's degree in Art History and Archaeology, Art History History track

Bachelor's degree in Education Education, Teaching and Training course

Bachelor's degree in Social Sciences Sociology course; Economics and Management course; Political Science and International Affairs course

Bachelor's degree in History History and Political Science

To promote access to knowledge for all, tuition fees are modulated according to household income. In addition, students in financial difficulty whose thirst for knowledge and aptitude for study are proven, can benefit from additional financial support from the ICP.

Exceptional scholarships for the first intake of students at the Rouen campus

Sénalia, Europe's leading cereal exporter, is committed to academic and social accessibility in its region. As Rouen's leading port operator, Sénalia is one of the founding sponsors of the ICP Rouen campus, whose social aid policy it supports. Sénalia offered 14 social grants covering the full tuition fees for the 3-year bachelor's degree to the students of the first intake of the Rouen campus. These grants can be combined with State grants.

Because professionalization is a fundamental dimension of ICP's training programs, Sénalia also offers students who so wish the opportunity to benefit from a mentoring program with Group employees during their third year of undergraduate studies.

5 reasons to choose ICP

Studying at the Institut Catholique de Paris means:

- Individualized support,
- Reputable degrees,
- A bachelor's degree success rate twice the national average,
- Quality teaching staff,
- 50 countries to study in.

The opening of the ICP Rouen campus is financially supported by the Normandie Region and the Métropole Rouen Normandie.

The Rouen campus project is also being developed in partnership with local companies. Their involvement is decisive in the choice of courses offered, to ensure that the ICP's offering meets the region's training needs.
